Paragraphs Texarkana Alarm Mail From Austria

Paragraphs
Roy Anderson excerpted three items from letters he received recently:
Confucius says: Men do not stumble over mountains—but over mole-hills.
A man is about as big as the things that make him angry.
Cooperation is doing with a smile what you have to do anyway.

Hope lost its mail sorting section to Texarkana's Texas-side Oaklawn Post Office May 6 and now the rumor wolves are bothering Texarkana.

The Texarkana Gazette last Thursday, Sept. 14, published a news story which began as follows:

"There is nothing presently afoot which would cause a major shift in postal personnel from Texarkana to Shreveport, an official of the U.S. Postal Service said Wednesday.

"Rumors have been reported circulating to the effect that some operations of Texarkana's section mail center would be closed down and certain personnel transferred to Shreveport."

What Texarkana postal men tell the Texarkana Gazette today is one thing but what will happen a month or so from now may be something else.

This "rumor" the Texarkana Gazette is talking about started with this column, which on the occasion of the loss of Hope's sorting section reported the word was out in postal circles that the move to Texarkana was only temporary—and the sorting section would eventually be transferred to Shreveport.

That there was some foundation for the report is evidenced by the fact that while the sorting section went to Texarkana the six Hope postal employees who handled it here were sent to Shreveport.

Government has an odd way of doing business. It mustered support among our business leaders and built Hope's new Post Office and Federal Building with the argument that it would mean a sorting section here for Southwest Arkansas. Your editor fought it and delayed construction for a year—to no avail.

Then Texarkana got its own new post office building, Oaklawn—and the sorting section went to it.

Now Shreveport has a new post office building, expert mail sorters are being concentrated there—six from Hope—and Texarkana Gazette whistles in the dark and screams "rumor!"

All this enmity between cities could be avoided. I have a plan: Put the sorting section in mobile homes and move from city to city at stated intervals. The government might even help reduce the postal deficit by collecting a subsidy from cities during the time they hosted the sorting section.

A letter from Innsbruck, Austria, arrived over the weekend, dated Sept. 10, and I found it was from Judge and Mrs. Royce Weisenberger.

"We are approaching Lucerne, Switzerland," he writes, "where we stay two nights. Mrs. Weisenberger is walking with a cane but we are doing well. Took a plane (Portuguese line, and nice) to Madrid and Rome; a bus Rome to Florence, Venice, Innsbruck, etc.

"Austria is beautiful, Spain clean and with new buildings. Got newspapers—London Daily Telegraph and Paris International edition of the New York Herald-Tribune (published jointly by the New York Times and Washington Post.)

"Are to be in Arkansas the night of Sept. 18."

I-30 paving completed

A cloud of dust swirls around heavy machinery at work on the last section of Interstate 30 not opened to traffic—a five-mile stretch between Prescott and Emmet. The concrete work has been completed for all four lanes, but work on shoulders and access roads will push the completion of the job into November, a spokesman said. At left, a truck loaded with dirt cruises down a section of the completed roadway. The paving of the last section of I-30 was completed last week.

Weekend wrecks kill 10 persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A rash of accidents Sunday, which claimed eight lives, pushed the death toll on Arkansas highways up to 10 for the weekend.

The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended last midnight.

George A. Henderson, 9, of Alma was killed when his motorcycle collided with a car about five miles north of Alma on Arkansas 282, State Police said. Martin Arnold, 12, who was riding on the vehicle, was injured. Gary Kelley, 22, of Alma, driver of the car, was not injured.

Timothy L. Mahoney, 15, of Cabot was killed and two of his cousins were injured in a two-car collision between Cabot and Lonoke on Arkansas 89. State Police said Mahoney was riding in a car driven by Larry D. Mahoney, 15, of Cabot. Their car collided with a car driven by another cousin, Roger D. Mahoney, 19, of Cabot. Larry and Roger Mahoney were injured.

Mike Hickman, 15, of Arkadelphia was killed and four other persons were injured in a three-car collision about three miles north of Arkadelphia on U. S. 67. Injured were Ann Cunningham, 15; Dody Thomas, 15; Kenny Cooper, 16, all of Arkadelphia and all passengers in the Hickman car; Charles Plymale, 23, of Arkadelphia, driver of one of the cars.

Susan Hardy, 15, of El Dorado was killed in a one-car accident on the U. S. 167 bypass at El Dorado. State Police said she was a passenger in a car driven by Danny R. Tew, 18, of El Dorado, who was not injured. James Eason, 17, of El Dorado, another passenger in the car, was injured. State Police said the car hit a bridge abutment.

Patsy Smith, 30, of El Dorado was killed in a two-car, head-on collision about 17 miles west of El Dorado on Arkansas 57.

HANOI (AP) — Three American pilots shot down during bomb raids over North Vietnam have been released from captivity at a ceremony organized by the North Vietnamese Army and attended by relatives and U.S. peace activists who had journeyed to Hanoi.

They are Navy Lt. Norris Charles, 27, whose wife Olga, had flown out from San Diego, Calif.; Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28, whose mother, Minnie Lee Gartley, came from Dunedin, Fla.; and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34, of Valdosta, Ga.

Overjoyed at their new freedom, the three fliers were appearing in new civilian clothing provided them for Sunday's 40-minute ceremony, a unique affair in the annals of warfare.

Each pilot made a statement into microphones before the official release, held before Vietnamese and European television cameramen in a building of the Peoples Army.

Olga Charles, 27, who had had her hair washed and set in a downtown Hanoi beauty shop in anticipation of the ceremony, fought through the throng of cameramen and technicians for an emotional embrace with her husband.

Minnie Lee Gartley joyfully put her arms around her Navy pilot son and said, "He's even better looking than I remembered." Mrs. Gartley for the past four years has actively

Climer says election is voter 'test'

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jerome Climer, Republican candidate for secretary of state, said at a news conference Sunday that his contest with incumbent Kelly Bryant "is a test of the intelligence of the Arkansas voters."

"Kelly Bryant is betting that most voters will not study the issues," Climer said, adding that Bryant was betting that most voters will vote for him out of habit.

Climer said Bryant purchases typewriter ribbons for $11 a dozen that Climer can buy for $7 a dozen.

Climer said Bryant does not make documents available in violation of the state's Freedom of Information law, and he said Bryant's handling of the petitions trying to get the American party presidential ticket on the Arkansas ballot "eats away at the basic right of every American to petition his government."

picketed Congress and the White House for an end to the war.

Elias, who until Saturday had expected his wife or father to come to Hanoi, said in a statement before the microphones, "I have been told that for various reasons they could not make it, but I will be seeing them soon."

Elias' father, Barney, a housing consultant, said in Jacksonville, Ill., he, his wife and daughter-in-law had decided it was "not in the best interest of all the POWs" for them to make the trip. He also said peace activists Cora Weiss and Dave Dellinger, who arranged the release and were at the Hanoi ceremony, had assured the Elias family the major's release would not be jeopardized by their not attending.

Charles, Gartley and Elias were the first American prisoners released by Hanoi since 1969.

Israeli foray into Lebanon is 'success'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli soldiers ended a 32-hour search-and-destroy mission against Arab guerrillas inside Lebanon and then returned home to begin Yom Kippur, the holiest of Jewish holidays.

Lt. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, said the mission ending Sunday night was a complete success and his forces destroyed 150 guerrilla houses and bunkers while killing about 60 terrorists and taking several prisoners.

Tel Aviv said three Israelis were killed and six wounded, while a Lebanese army communiqué claimed the Israelis lost 18 dead on Saturday, the first day of the operation. The communiqué also said eight Lebanese soldiers were killed, 12 wounded and 20 missing.

The Israelis said they searched 16 Arab villages during the operation and air force jets bombed and rocketed eight guerrilla encampments and two headquarters complexes.

The raids were a reprisal for the killing of 11 Israeli Olympic team members at Munich and guerrilla raids in recent weeks across the Lebanese border, which have resulted in killing of at least three soldiers.

"I can assure you we will pursue and root out the terrorists wherever they may be," Prime Minister Golda Meir declared in a radio speech at the beginning of Yom Kippur.

While claiming over-all success, Israel said the unexpected resistance from regular Lebanese army units was the strongest defense they have put up since the 1967 Mideast war.

"We are not fighting the Lebanese army," an Israeli commander told his troops before they entered Lebanon, according to a dispatch from newsmen with the troops.

Nevertheless, seven miles inside Lebanon, after passing up one Lebanese army check point which offered no resistance, Israelis in armored cars and tanks came under recoilless rifle fire.

At least six Lebanese army vehicles were damaged or destroyed along one road near Beit Yahoun, Associated Press correspondent Harry Dunphy reported after a tour of the area.

Israel did not disclose the number of its troops involved in the operation, but Dunphy said as many as 40 tanks and armored personnel carriers rolled across Lebanon's hills at one entry point, indicating perhaps 100 vehicles were involved in the entire operation.

"About 80 to 100 Israelis came in early Saturday morning, stayed through the night and began to leave about 3 o'clock," a villager in Jawayya, where two buildings were blown up by the Israelis, said. "The three persons who were killed here were innocent. They weren't involved in politics. Just farmers."

The troops spent Saturday night in Lebanon and returned to Israel Sunday. But they had to make one final stop at a Lebanese gas station where some of the vehicles refilled their tanks. Others were towed across the border with their gas tanks empty.

Many of the soldiers returned to Israel just in time to celebrate Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. The state radio shut down for 27 hours, traffic nearly halted at sundown Sunday and many cities looked like ghost towns. Airline flights also were canceled.

The Israeli incursions prompted the Lebanese government to declare a state of emergency and censorship was (Continued on next page.)

Uganda invades Tanzania

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Uganda announced today it has "more or less repulsed" one of the invasion forces it said attacked from neighboring Tanzania Sunday with the aim of stopping Ugandan plans to expel thousands of Asian residents.

Tanzania denied launching an invasion of its East African neighbor but reported that two planes, believed to be from Uganda, bombed the town of Bukoba in northern Tanzania today.

A Uganda military spokesman said government troops halted an enemy force at Mbarara 160 miles southwest of the Ugandan capital of Kampala and collected the bodies of 25 invaders—three of whom were identified as Israelis.

"The enemy side had heavy casualties. As of midnight, our troops had more or less repulsed the enemy from Mbarara," the spokesman said.

He gave no information on fighting reported at other areas of the border between Uganda and Tanzania, which share the eastern shore of Lake Victoria. Uganda announced Sunday invading Tanzanians had seized three Ugandan towns.

Wheat probe continued by subcommittee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union said today that big grain companies easily could have collected windfall profits of $100 million under export-subsidy maneuvering allowed by the Agriculture Department in wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Weldon V. Barton, NFU legislative representative, told Congress in prepared testimony that the $100-million figure was only a possibility, however.

"Actual windfalls have been, or will be, realized to the extent that certain grain-trade companies had 'inside' information on which they could gamble on staggering their contracting for sale to the Soviets or other countries and their booking for export subsidies," Barton said.

A House subcommittee is checking into allegations that some private exporting companies had advance or inside information on sales and subsidies.

The probe, into sales totaling 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets, began last Thursday.

Charles W. Pence, an official with the Export Marketing Service in USDA, also was to appear today before the panel, headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex.

Pence, earlier testimony showed, telephoned a number of exporters on Aug. 24 notifying them of a change in export-subsidy policy. That change was announced publicly a day later.

The subsidies, paid to bridge the difference between U.S. prices and what exporters get for wheat on the world market, were available for one week at a rate of 47 cents per bushel on wheat sold prior to the Aug. 24 cutoff.

Department records showed the 47-cent subsidies were booked for about 280 million bushels of wheat during the Aug. 25-Sept. 1 grace period at a total value of about $130 million. The subsidy rate since then has been lowered to less than 25 cents a bushel.

Meeting at Washington set for Tuesday night

A special public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) in the school gym at Washington, by the Washington Arkansas Pioneer Restoration Foundation and the state Parks and Tourist Department to inform the public of the proposed 20-year restoration and tourist development program being planned by these two organizations.

According to an announcement by Mrs. Charles Haynes, executive director of the Pioneer Washington, Arkansas Foundation, the foundation, which was recently placed on the National Historical Registry by the U.S. Department of Interior, matching state and government funds have been obtained for this massive project.

"We want everyone to know and understand how and when these funds will be spent in Washington," stated Mrs. Haynes. "We invite everyone to attend," she added.

The school gym is located in back of the Old Courthouse in Washington. George Peck is president of the foundation.

Nixon courting Demo voters in campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is courting traditionally Democratic voting blocs as he increases the pace of his re-election campaign. Making a surprise stop while en route back to the White House from Camp David on Sunday, Nixon went to an Italian-American picnic and then toured a Catholic-sponsored home for the elderly.

In past campaigns, most ethnic blocs and the Catholic vote generally have been considered in the Democratic camp. But this year Nixon is trying to make inroads into Democratic strongholds as he seeks to weld a new political majority of Democrats, Republicans and independents.

Pursuit of that goal carried him on the steamy Sunday afternoon to the southern Maryland community of Mitchellville.

Has George McGovern changed?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tone is different and so is much of the rhetoric. But the George McGovern campaigning as Democratic presidential nominee is relatively unchanged from the little-known South Dakota senator fighting last spring for his party's nomination.

Despite well-publicized changes in his tax and welfare proposals, and the abandonment of "new politics" rhetoric to woo such party leaders as Richard J. Daley, McGovern is staying remarkably close to the thrust, if not always the particulars, of his original proposals.

The change, by contrast, is far less than the 180-degree turns negotiated by President Nixon when he abandoned a career of opposition to economic controls and reversed his position on U.S. ties with mainland China.

"Of course, he's been inconsistent on some things," said one of McGovern's longtime supporters, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut. "Any good politician is. Events change, and you have to change with them."

McGovern himself admits he is more cautious in expressing his views, especially since he first denied, then admitted, asking Pierre Salinger to make inquiries in his behalf in Paris as to whether North Vietnamese terms for release of U.S. prisoners have changed.

"If you folks have noticed some additional caution on my part," he said in Albuquerque Sept. 9, "it's not any desire on my part not to level with you, to be open with you, but because I want to be more sure of the facts of the situation before I speak, based on the lessons learned in the Salinger thing."

As McGovern tours the country, seeking to bring straying Democrats back from their flirtation with Nixon, he invokes the names of past Democratic heroes, from Franklin D. Roosevelt to Lyndon B. Johnson. Last spring, he never would have mentioned Johnson.

In many states, too, younger McGovern operatives have been shunted aside and the campaign chairmanship given to old-style pols—former National Chairman John M. Bailey in Connecticut, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson in Washington, former Mayor Robert F. Wagner in New York.

In discussing issues, McGovern centers his appeals now on the traditional Democratic economic appeal, the Democratic headquarters break-in, what he terms the "selfish special interests" of the Nixon administration, tax reform and, of course, the issue that brought him national prominence—the Vietnam war.

In Pittsburgh last week, McGovern exhibited the more cautious, yet unchanged in context, rhetoric of the fall campaign.

McGovern had said last month that his election probably would prompt South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu to flee the country, making way for a Communist-dominated coalition. But in Pittsburgh he said he could not assure that Thieu would survive a U.S. withdrawal.

But neither could he assure that Thieu would survive if the United States stayed in Vietnam another five to 10 years.

In Miami Beach, McGovern made a bid for support of wives and families of U.S. prisoners of war by saying that, if the Communists failed to release POWs following a total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, he would leave a residual force in Thailand and on the Gulf of Tonkin.

This marked a change from his previous vows of total U.S. withdrawal from all of Southeast Asia.

It soon developed, however, that this was more gesture than policy change; that he didn't think that situation would arise, didn't envision any military action by that force and doubted it would have much impact.

Besides the war, the three most publicized McGovern proposals of the spring were a $32-billion defense-reduction proposal, a $28-billion tax-reform package and a plan to abolish the current welfare system.

For the welfare program, he had said he would substitute cash grants for all, at a level such as $1,000 per person, that would be offset by increased taxes for families of four with annual incomes over $12,000.

As McGovern became more and more specific about the $1,000-per-person income-maintenance proposal—he had started by citing that as an example of what might be done—it became more and more controversial.

Between the primaries and the Democratic Convention, McGovern withdrew the plan. When the new one emerged late last month, with an emphasis on finding jobs while guaranteeing up to $4,000 annually for a family of four below the poverty line, it bore little resemblance to its predecessor.

At the same time, McGovern revised a tax package that already had been changed somewhat during the primaries to meet criticism from Wall Street, taking out such things as the stiff inheritance tax but leaving intact the basic goal: to remove "loopholes" that permit many wealthy people to avoid taxes paid by those whose entire income comes from wages, and to erase some of the tax breaks given large corporations in recent years.

The size of the package was reduced to $22 billion.

On defense spending, where neutral analysts said McGovern's arithmetic was fairly good while questioning his strategic thinking, the change has been small. McGovern now says the cut would come over three years, meaning by fiscal 1976, rather than by fiscal 1975.

On other issues, McGovern has largely stuck to his guns while revising the way in which his positions are delineated.

3 U. S. jets downed

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the loss of three jets during raids over North Vietnam and said four of the six crewmen were missing.

U.S. Navy destroyers, fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships stepped up their attacks on supplies being unloaded by Chinese freighters off the coast of North Vietnam in efforts to circumvent the U.S. blockade of the ports of Dong Hoi and Vinh.

The U.S. Command reported that Air Force, Navy and Marine tactical fighter-bombers carried out more than 330 strikes across North Vietnam Sunday. The closest raid to Hanoi reported by the command was 42 miles north of the capital.

While the strikes were being carried out across North Vietnam Sunday, the North Vietnamese held a release ceremony in Hanoi for three American pilots who are scheduled to return to the United States this week.

In Da Nang, terrorists riding motorbikes tossed hand grenades into two coffee shops and a street intersection Sunday night, killing two children, a civilian and a policeman. Fourteen others were wounded.

An Air Force F105 was hit by a surface-to-air missile Sunday and crashed into the Tonkin

Gulf near Dao Cat Ba island east of Haiphong and the two crewmen were listed as missing.

The two crewmen of an Air Force Phantom, after completing a mission over North Vietnam, had to bail out Sunday when a malfunction caused a fire in the cockpit, spokesmen said. They were rescued 65 miles northwest of Da Nang.

The third air loss occurred Sept. 12 but was not announced until today because search-and-rescue operations were under way. The U.S. Command said it was an Air Force Phantom that was downed by a MIG 32 miles northeast of Haiphong. The two crewmen are listed as missing.

In a broadcast monitored in Hong Kong, Radio Hanoi said that in the past three days six U.S. planes, including a B52 bomber, were shot down over the North.

The broadcast said the B52 was downed Friday over Quang Binh province.

South Vietnamese forces, flushed by their victory in the Quang Tri Citadel, launched fresh sweeping operations through the northernmost provincial capital and fighting continued, although the government troops appeared to be in firm control of the city.

The government forces claimed nearly 400 North Vietnamese troops killed during the weekend, but other sources said this number included the bodies of many others killed days before by air strikes and artillery and only now being uncovered. Government losses were described as light.

A third day of fighting continued at the district town of Mo Duc in Quang Ngai province 75 miles below Da Nang. The Saigon command said government forces repulsed renewed assaults against the town, but suffered 10 men killed and 15 wounded. Enemy losses were not known.

Field informants said that three days of fighting at Mo Duc had caused moderate casualties to both government and North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces. There also were reports of casualties to civilians caught in the crossfire, but no figure was available.

U.S. B52 bombers swept into Quang Ngai province and attacked North Vietnamese troop positions and staging areas within five miles of Mo Duc.

At last report, the town was still in government hands.

Elsewhere, the Saigon command reported that Typhoon Flossie caused heavy damage in Kontum province, in the central highlands, which were already ravaged by North Vietnamese attacks last May and June.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the command, said the province's entire food crop was washed away, 80 per cent of the livestock were killed and 70 per cent of the homes were destroyed. At least four persons were reported killed.

The U.S. Command announced American troop strength in Vietnam dropped last week to 36,000, a reduction of about 200 men from the previous week.

Al Fatah guerrillas in Syria claimed the Lebanese government ordered all the guerrillas to leave inhabited areas and to stop circulating in uniforms and with arms. But Premier Saeb Salam denied his government had given the guerrillas any sort of ultimatum restricting their actions.

Lebanon and the guerrillas worked out an agreement in 1970 giving them freedom to operate from the mountainous southern areas near Israel.

In Cairo, the authoritative newspaper Al Ahran proposed an Arab summit in Beirut to deal with the Israeli raids. The paper's editor, Mohamed Hassanain Heikal, a confidant of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, expressed shock at the seeming indifference on the part of Arabs to the Israeli action.

4 vehicles involved in 67 accident

Two tractor-trailer rigs, an automobile driven by a Little Rock woman and a stolen car was involved in a multi-vehicle accident on U.S. Highway 67 near Prescott at 6:55 a.m. Saturday, according to the State Police.

Miss Kathy Bowman, 19, of Little Rock, was driving Southwest on Highway 67, toward Hope, when she spotted a parked car on the shoulder, according to the state police. She slowed down, and a truck behind her driven by John Griffin, 22, of Gurdon skidded, hitting the Bowman car from the rear. The Bowman vehicle struck the rear of the parked car, knocking it into the ditch. Griffin's vehicle skidded by, Curtis Carter, 48, of Benton. The collision knocked Griffin's vehicle into the ditch.

The collision between the Bowman car and Griffin's rig split the car's gas tank and ignited it. The Bowman vehicle was burned, but Miss Bowman escaped injury.

The parked car was reportedly stolen from B.H. Shim-pock of Texarkana, Ark., the state police said.

The three remaining vehicles suffered moderate damage, and no injuries were reported.

You don't have to be married to see a marriage counselor

WASHINGTON (AP)— You don't have to be married to seek out a marriage counselor.

From Boston to Beverly Hills psychiatrists and counselors say that within the past year unmarried couples have been beating a track to their doors in unprecedented numbers.

"The principal reason they come is that most people who live together become emotionally involved and don't know how to break up," said Jarle Brors founder of the Institute of Marriage and Family Relations in Washington.

Brors was among more than two dozen family counselors questioned in a survey of seven metropolitan areas—Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, St. Louis and Washington. All said their practices now include unmarried couples who live together.

"The understanding when they live together is that they're free," Brors said. "But it doesn't usually work that way. It's not much different from marriage except that in one case they have a ring and in one they don't."

One counselor gave this example of an unmarried couple that sought his advice:

Peter and Pat two college students from New York had been living together about a year. "Peter insisted he loved Pat and considered their relationship permanent but he was not ready to get married. Pat was. After numerous arguments they went to a family counselor. After four sessions they split up.

"It became clear that neither of them felt comfortable together," the counselor said. "After the first session it came out that he did what he damn well pleased and she felt used that it was nothing more than a convenience for him."

Many of the counselors said that the intrigue of living together without marriage some times wears thin after awhile.

"It's like trying to live with something the spirit doesn't go along with" said Joseph LaLiberte supervisor of the Boston office of the Family Counseling Guidance Center Inc.

Some counselors said that unmarried couples often seek help in reaction to disapproval from family or neighbors.

In Beverly Hills, Calif. Dr. David Radell administrative director for the Center for Behavior Therapy said that unmarried couples make up almost 20 per cent of the center's clientele this year. Treatment he said usually takes two half hour visits each week for 10 to 15 weeks. Each session costs $25 to $35.

Fall workshop is slated at Presbyterian Church

Ouachita Presbyterian District II will hold its annual fall workshop in the Washington Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, September 19. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m.; the worship portion of the morning program will be at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Robert Hyatt, pastor of the church, will open the service with prayer, and the Rev. David Davies, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Texarkana, Ark., will bring a message, to the women assembled on "taking the word to the incarcerated." The Rev. Davies has been working with inmates of the Federal Correctional Institute in Texarkana for a number of years.

At 11 a.m. the workshop will be conducted to better inform the women of their duties and responsibilities for the ensuing year as officers and chairmen of the Women of the Church.

Luncheon will be served picnic style at 12:30 p.m. on the lawn of the old school house with each woman bringing her own sandwiches, and the beverage, salad and dessert will be provided by the host church.

The women of the First Presbyterian Churches of Hope and Washington are hosts for the meeting and invite all interested women to be present.

Chic-hatted ladies form the pattern in the jacquard knit pants and matching vest (left). The midsection is a black ribbed knit and the effect is glorious with a solid shirt. In rust, taupe, black and cream polyester and acrylic knit for maximum impact and minimum upkeep. An alluring way to look (right) is the fluid little top, Dolman sleeved and shirred with elastic where it counts. It is worn with a matching pin-tucked skirt buttoned only to the knee. These are Another I's designs.

Helen Help Us!

HELEN BOTTEL

Perfection Is No Fun, Either

Dear Helen:
I've read a lot about imperfect in-laws, but what do you do when yours are PERFECT? I mean really, I'm not being sarcastic. It's tough following an act like that.

My mother-in-law can entertain with no apparent effort, practically runs three social and political clubs, looks gorgeous, even when she's scrubbing out the bathtub, and manages to read all the latest books besides.

But my sister-in-law outshines her! She works; keeps house so you can eat off the floors (if you can assume the Lotus Position); she makes a master chef blush with shame the way she whips up homemade cream puffs, etc.; she wallpapers the house when she can't find anything better to do, like racing around playing Lady Bountiful to elderly aunts, with a bowl of chicken soup under her arm (homemade naturally).

Don't tell me I shouldn't feel inferior to them...hell, I AM inferior. So is everyone else. The amazing part is I like them. But I dread the day my husband wakes up and sees he married a —KLUTZ

Dear Klutz:
It's just possible your husband would rather have you

"klutzy" than any other way. "Tough following an act like that," says you? Think how much tougher it is LIVING with it, if one can't match the perfection.

Admire your in-laws but don't compete. Perhaps for the first time in his life, your man is able to relax. —H.

Dear Helen:
Class reunions! Why don't they update them. I've never heard of one yet that doesn't offer prizes for:

1. Most children and (or) grandchildren;
2. Who has travelled the greatest distance. Then they usually introduce the guy who was the star quarterback; but never class valedictorian.

In these days when producing vast numbers of offspring isn't the zenith of achievement and the rah-rahs are getting the haw-haws, why don't reunion planners single out people who have done most for their communities; tell a few success stories? Maybe then they'd draw more of the interesting alumni back to these now somewhat ghastly affairs. —TRIED IT, DIDN'T LIKE IT

Dear TIDL:
Maybe instead of asking "how many children?" reunionists should offer combat ribbons for most divorces, highest child support payments, greatest number of visits to psychiatrists...

Seriously, I doubt we'll ever change the format of class reunions. They're as locked into tradition as "The Star Spangled Banner" rendition — before major football games. —H.

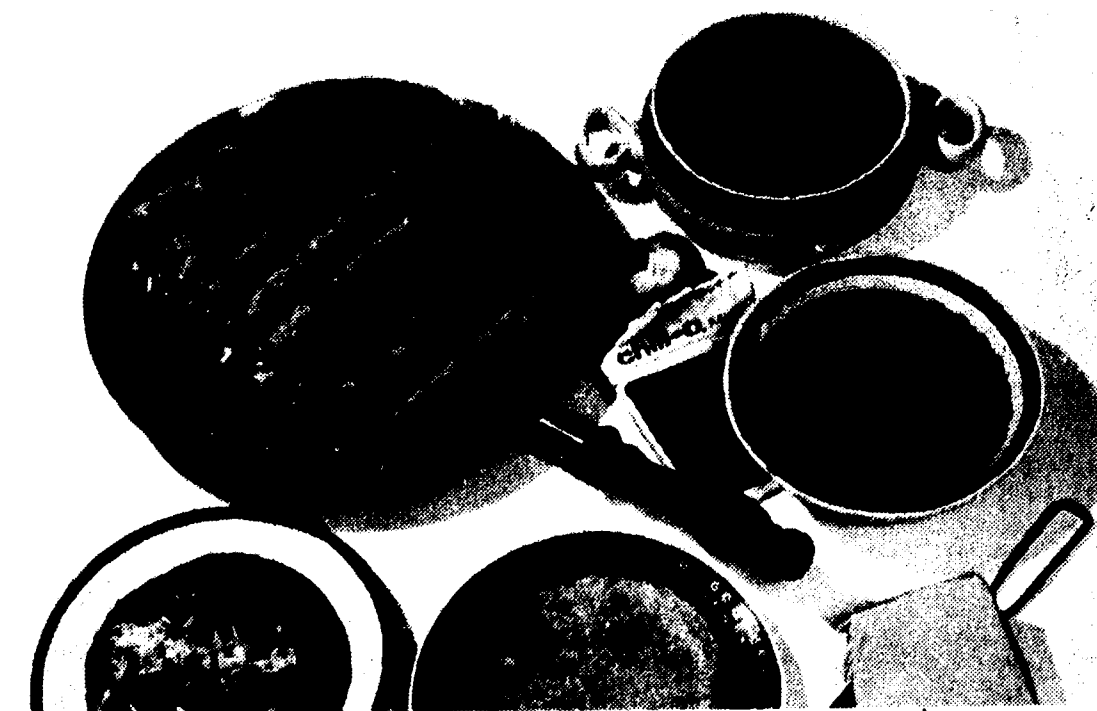

Dear Helen:
My heart goes out to the epileptic who lost many job opportunities and finally had to lie on his application form before he could find rewarding work. And to "Shunned," who was asked to resign from a church choir, due to "fits." By the grace of God, this has not happened to me.

I went to a normal employment agency after finishing college and got a job as secretary, with the agency knowing I am an epileptic (which is now almost completely under control).

Aside from being the mother of three children, I work for a Cultural Council, am Chairwoman of a local club, and secretary for the County Epilepsy Society, whose aim is to broaden people's outlook toward epileptics. When I have a petit mal seizure people show concern and warmth, not shock.

There is hope for epileptics. What people understand they no longer fear. May your correspondents soon receive such understanding. —P.C.

Enchiladas casserole makes zesty eating

ENCHILADAS CASSEROLE — A Texan version of this hearty Mexican dish.

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

Texans have their own excellent adaptations of Mexican recipes. So here's an Enchiladas Casserole that makes deliciously zesty eating. It was inspired by a cook from San Antonio.

One hint: this casserole has loads of tomato sauce, so it's a good idea to have extra heated tortillas on hand to offer with it.

ENCHILADAS CASSEROLE

- 1 package (9 ounces) frozen corn tortillas or 12 fresh corn tortillas
- 1 1/4 pounds ground round beef
- 2 envelopes (each 1 3/4 ounces) seasoning mix for chili
- 2 cups water
- 1 can (1 pound and 12 ounces) tomato puree
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 8 ounces cheddar cheese, grated medium fine
- 1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped onion (2 to 3 medium onions)

If using frozen tortillas, thaw in refrigerator overnight.

In a 10-inch skillet over medium heat, cook beef, crumbling with a fork, until red color disappears. Sprinkle meat with 1 envelope of the seasoning mix for chili; stir to blend. Add 1 cup water and cook, stirring several times, until water is absorbed — about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and set aside.

In a large saucepan mix together the tomato puree, remaining 1 cup water and remaining envelope of the seasoning mix for chili. Bring to a boil; reduce heat, cover and cook 5 minutes; remove from heat.

In an 8-inch skillet heat the oil until very hot. Using tongs, add tortillas, one at a time, and cook no longer than 15 seconds, turning once; count to 10, turn, then count to 5. (If tortillas are overcooked, they become crisp and are impossible to shape.) Stack tortillas on a plate as they are removed from oil.

To assemble the Enchiladas Casserole, work with 1 tortilla at a time. Dip the tortilla in tomato sauce; place on a plate. Spoon 2 heaping tablespoons meat mixture in a row across center of tortillas. Add a tablespoon of grated cheese, then a tablespoon of onion. Fold sides of tortilla over filling and place, folded side down, in a 3-quart oblong glass baking dish (13 1/2 by 8 3/4 by 1 3/4 inches) or similar utensil.

Pour remaining sauce over tortillas. Sprinkle with remaining cheese and onion. Cover baking dish with foil.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove foil and continue baking until bubbly hot and cheese is melted — 15 minutes.

Makes 6 servings — 2 enchiladas per portion.

To Prepare Ahead: Prepare enchiladas and place them all in the baking dish, but do not pour remaining sauce over top or add remaining cheese and onion. Cover with foil and refrigerate. Refrigerate cheese and onion separately in two tightly covered containers. Remove baking dish and cheese and onion from refrigerator about 30 minutes before baking. Just before baking, pour sauce over top and sprinkle with cheese and onion. Recover with foil and bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 40 minutes; remove foil and continue baking until bubbly hot and cheese is melted — about 15 minutes.

Note: This recipe makes fairly hot enchiladas. For a milder dish, reduce seasoning mix for chili to 1 envelope, using 1/2 in meat and 1/2 in sauce.

Pirates find magic number

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Lightning is about to strike again for the Pittsburgh Pirates, but it won't be in St. Louis.

"They had enough fun here last year; let them have some fun in New York for a change," grumbled Vern Benson, a St. Louis coach, Sunday after the Cardinals delayed Pittsburgh's pennant-clinching by sweeping a three-game series. Sunday's score was 5-4 and it kept the Pirates' magic number in baseball's National League East at three.

"New York is as good a place as any to clinch it," said Pirate slugger Willie Stargell as the defending world champions headed for a four-game set starting tonight against the newly eliminated Mets with a 12-game lead over Chicago.

Any combination of three Pittsburgh wins and Chicago losses will eliminate the Cubs, who in turn eliminated the Cardinals delayed Pittsburgh's pennant-clinching by sweeping a three-game series. Sunday's score was 5-4 and it kept the Pirates' magic number in baseball's National League East at three.

American League scores: Cleveland 9, Boston 2; Detroit 6, Milwaukee 2; New York 2, Baltimore 1; Oakland 4, Texas 1; California 3, Chicago 1; Kansas City 10, Minnesota 6 in 10 innings.

Ted Sizemore, who hit Pirate pitching at a .448 clip this season, got the key blow for St. Louis, a looping two-run tie-breaking single in the sixth inning.

Glenn Beckert drove in three runs as the Cubs beat the Mets, two with a bases-loaded squib single off relief ace Tug McGraw in the ninth. Bill Hands and Rick Reuschel blanked New York until the eighth, when the Mets put together five consecutive singles for their first three runs.

Nate Colbert and Leron Lee homered for San Diego before Cincinnati's Hal McRae tied the score at 7-all in the eighth inning with his third pinch homer of the season. The Padres broke the tie with three runs in the ninth on Dave Roberts' single, Jerry Morales' double, a walk and a mental error by third baseman Denis Menke, who left the bag uncovered on a double steal and watched Johnny Bench's throw sail into left field.

The Reds' magic number in the West Division remained at six and their lead over Houston shrank to seven games when the Astros won a wild game from the Dodgers that saw the teams tie a major league record by using 14 pitchers—eight by Houston, matching the NL mark by one club in a nine-inning game.

Lee May, who hit his 29th homer, and Cesar Cedeno drove in five runs apiece for the Astros.

Lee Trevino wins St. Louis tourney

By PAUL LeBAR

Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lee Trevino lost his putting touch but not his lead in hanging on to win $30,400 top money in the $150,000 Greater St. Louis Golf Classic Sunday.

The confident Texan, fulfilling a week-long promise, overcame Deane Beman's one-stroke edge early on the final 18 holes and prevailed with a 269, matching the year's best 72-hole total.

Trevino at the finish was a stroke ahead of Beman with a par 70 compared to the former British and U.S. Amateur champion's 72 for 270.

The victory, however, would have been a comfortable one had not the 32-year-old Trevino faltered in sweltering heat and bogeyed three holes on the back nine.

—Former New York Mets Ron Hunt, Tim Foli, Mike Jorgensen, Ken Singleton and Clyde Mashore are with the Montreal Expos.

Southern Cal rips Oregon State

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
"They are ranked No. 1 and they played like a No. 1 team."

So Said Oregon State's Dee Andros after powerful Southern California completed its first week as college football's top-rated team with a 51-6 rout Saturday night, outgaining the Beavers 670 yards—354 rushing, 316 passing—to 92 and recovering five of the losers' seven fumbles.

And despite the score, the Trojans didn't roll it up. "It was just a matter of Oregon State being a young team," said USC's John McKay. "We just had too many advantages. We suited up 50 players and everybody played, even some of the reserves in the second quarter."

By halftime, Southern Cal had a 20-6 lead, with Rod McNeill scoring all three touchdowns on runs of 14, two and five yards. McNeill gained 117 yards while quarterback Mike Rae completed 12 of 19 passes for 248 yards and one score and second-stringer Pat Haden scored one TD and passed for another.

Second-ranked Colorado kept pace with Southern Cal by trouncing Cincinnati 56-14 while third-rated Ohio State and No. 4 Oklahoma opened their seasons with shutout triumphs—21-0 over Iowa and 49-0 over Utah State, respectively.

Alabama, rated fifth, was idle while No. 7 Tennessee outlasted No. 6 Penn State 28-21 in the only match-up of Top Ten teams. UCLA, No. 8, held off Pitt 38-28, ninth-rated Louisiana State debuted with a 31-13 victory over Pacific and Nebraska's defending national champions, who skidded from first to 10th after losing to UCLA a week ago, started the long road back with a 37-7 whopping of Texas A&M.

In other games involving teams of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference, State College slipped by Central Missouri 21-14, Livingston defeated Southern State 38-21, Delta State whipped UA-Monticello 28-14, Northeast Oklahoma blanked Arkansas Tech 13-0, Nicholls State upset Ouachita 12-7, Henderson defeated Mississippi College 15-12 and Mississippi Valley edged UA-Pine Bluff 7-6.

Livingston, the defending champion of the NAIA, exploded for 17 points in the final period to defeat Southern State. Livingston's fourth quarter points came on a 28-yard run by Norris Langston, a 27-yard run by Berneal Ellison, and a 44-yard field goal by Lonnie Slovinsky. Southern State had led 21-14 at the half.

Lewis Pryor raced 41 yards for a fourth-quarter touchdown to give Henderson State a narrow victory. Pryor had scored earlier on a five-yard run after Mississippi College had jumped to a 12-0 halftime lead.

Billy Joe Releford led Northeast Oklahoma over Tech, scoring on a 95-yard run and picking up 164 yards on 22 carries. Releford's touchdown came in the third quarter, adding to Bruce Johnson's one-yard sneak for a TD in the first period following a fumble recovery by the Redmen on the Tech 20.

Fullback Bobby Covington scored two touchdowns as Delta State won over UA-Monticello. Covington scored on runs of eight and two yards in the first half. The Statesmen built a 21-0 halftime lead on his runs and an 18-yard touchdown return of an interception by cornerback Don Harper.

SCA scored all its points in the first half and then had to hang on for a victory over Central Missouri. The Bears scored in the first half on Nathaniel Daniel's three-yard run, James Hall's one-yard plunge and a 15-yard pass from Clayton Irey to Billy White.

The Nicholls State Colonels erased a 7-3 fourth quarter deficit with a touchdown and a safety to edge Ouachita. Phil Baker ran for OBU's only touchdown from six yards out.

Fred Cook's extra point proved to be the difference in Mississippi Valley's victory over the Golden Lions. The Kick came after Jerome Thomas bucked his way through heavy traffic from eight yards out to go in for the Delta Devils' only touchdown.

Lions' quarterback Connie Hatchorn fired an eight-yard scoring pass to tight end Terry Nelson to pull UA-Pine Bluff with one point. But Joe Napoleon's extra point attempt was wide to the right.

Some remedies for the illnesses that plague the Olympic games

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

"The doctor put him in the dark of ether... They listened at his heart. Little—less—nothing!—and that ended it. No more to build on there. And they, since they were not the one dead, turned to their affairs."

From "Out, Out—" by Robert Frost

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The 21st Olympic Games in Montreal in 1976 will be put on by those who did not die in Munich. That is, those who did not literally die by murderers' bullets and those whose spirit for sports did not die in the tragedies and travesties that buried the Munich Olympics.

They will be put on by people with mentalities as diverse as Olga Connolly and the heads of the International Handball Federation (IHF).

The IHF had threatened to hold Norway financially responsible for lost gate receipts if its handball team withdrew from the Munich Games as a show of sympathy for the 11 Israeli Olympic team victims of Arab terrorists.

Olga Connolly, five-time Olympic discus thrower, is a staunch peace advocate. But she also wanted the Olympic Games to continue, for different reasons than those of the IHF.

She recalled that last year she saw both her mother and father die. "It left a scar on my heart," she said. "But the day after the funeral I went back to work. I had my four children to feed, the house to clean, the laundry to do. Life had to go on. What happened here (Munich) will leave a scar on my heart, too." But she continued to compete ("even enjoying it for those few minutes").

Sport for Olga, like sport for most other Olympic athletes, is a way of life. Without it, they die spiritually. Mark Spitz, for example, swims the equivalent width of the Atlantic Ocean from New York to London to prepare for the 1972 Olympics. There is not much time left for other things, such as politics. He has one love, all-consuming?

Yet the question concerning the Olympics is: Are they sport? Crowds had to still be gathered in Munich to defray the $700 million spent to put on the "Games." So, the IHF to the rescue.

The Olympics have grown like a dinosaur and are in danger of dying of their own enormity. Nations and outlaws now use it as a power base. The attendant worldwide press and television coverage makes the Olympics a greater political mound than the United Nations.

The Olympics are in trouble. Montreal is in trouble. Lord Killanin, new president of the IOC, says he plans to bring the Olympics into the twentieth century, whatever he means by that.

He must know that the notion of nations must be expunged. The Olympics were originally supposed to be individual against individual. That concept is moribund, if in fact it ever did live. Even Avery Brundage, the ill-directed idealist and former head of the IOC, admitted the problem that most national governments pay their "amateur" athletes and build the playing fields, and thereby expect close-mouthed loyalty in return.

And the Olympics feed on nationalism, too. Here are some proposals for starving out that patriotic fervor and, perhaps, saving the Games from themselves.

● In the opening and closing ceremonies, the athletes should march in by events (shot putters here, equestrians there, and behind newly designed flags of the sports.

● Athletes should wear "Olympic" uniforms with numbers on the backs.

● A favorite song of a winner should be played (from the Beatles to Beethoven), instead of the national anthems. No flags raised.

● Athletes should live in dormitories arranged by sport.

● All "professionals" or "amateurs" (the difference is now one of semantics) should be allowed to compete.

● Any drug an athlete wants to take is allowable, as long as he can keep both feet on the ground (Let them be responsible for their own health).

● Judges and referees must be tested for competence and not, as now, for cronyism. Some kind of pre-Olympic trials must be organized for them, too.

● World press must be implored not to print those "unofficial" team standings of medals won. It can be done. After all, the press has enough self-control now that it does not print the names of rape victims.

And then hopefully the stench of politics will be overcome by the stink of sweat.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

OLGA CONNOLLY, who carried the American flag in the opening ceremony at the Munich Games, approved of continuing the games after Arab terrorists killed 11 Israeli team members because "life had to go on."

Van Galder upstages Colts' Unitas

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Tim Van Galder has qualified for the National Football League's pension plan for players.

It could mean a lot larger pension than the one he'd have gotten if he had remained in the Army. The 28-year-old rookie—by NFL rules—directed the St. Louis Cardinals to a 10-3 upset of the Baltimore Colts Sunday as pro football began its 1972 season.

"Not only was this my first regular season start, it qualified me for the NFL pension," explained Van Galder, who upstaged one of the game's old pros, Johnny Unitas. He spent three years on St. Louis' taxi squad and two years in the Army before getting into a regular season game. In Sunday's other games, the Miami Dolphins defeated the Kansas City Chiefs 20-10; the Atlanta Falcons bombed the Chicago Bears 37-21; the Green Bay Packers upset the Cleveland Browns 26-10; Cincinnati's Bengals clouted the New England Patriots 31-7; the Los Angeles Rams routed the New Orleans Saints 34-14.

The Detroit Lions whipped the New York Giants 30-16; the New York Jets jolted the Buffalo Bills 41-24; the Pittsburgh Steelers thumped the Oakland Raiders 34-28; the Dallas Cowboys thrashed the Philadelphia Eagles 26-6; the San Francisco 49ers beat the San Diego Chargers 34-3; and the Denver Broncos clipped the Houston Oilers 30-17.

Coach George Allen, who has never lost an opening game, sends his Washington Redskins to Minnesota tonight for a nationally televised game, winding up the first of 14 weekends of NFL action.

Van Galder's statistics from the Cardinal-Colt game weren't very impressive—10 of 15 passes for 110 yards. But he connected with a 71-yard toss to Jacky Smith in the third quarter on a play which led to Donny Anderson's four-yard game-winning touchdown run.

Baltimore's Unitas threw 36 times, completing 22 for 257 yards. It put Unitas' total passing figures for his 17 seasons as a pro over 22 miles.

"Mistakes, Mistakes," muttered Don McCafferty, the Colt coach. "We made mistakes and the Cardinals didn't."

Now for a quick look at the other games: Dolphins 20, Chiefs 10: In the celebrated replay of the 1971 Christmas Day double-overtime game, Miami won again.

Indians scalp Red Sox

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Remember the Cleveland Indians? Detroit, Baltimore and New York will—and Boston certainly does.

The Indians, it seems control the destiny of the American League East—and that means the Tigers, Orioles, Yankees and Red Sox.

Cleveland, wallowing in fifth place, 14 games off the frantic pace, closes out its less-than-successful season with two games against Detroit, followed by four apiece with Baltimore and New York.

But Boston was the bunch on hand Sunday and the Indians did a good bit of scalping as Gaylord Perry, with solid support from the rest of the tribe, scattered seven Red Sox hits en route to a 9-2 romp that nailed down his 21st victory of the baseball season.

That, coupled with Detroit's 6-2 victory over Milwaukee, shaved the Red Sox' lead over the Tigers to one tiny percentage point.

The Yankees, meanwhile, kept their hopes alive by nipping the Orioles 2-1, moving within 2½ games of the front-runners while keeping Baltimore 1½ back.

In the West Division, things loosened up a bit more as Oakland downed Texas 4-1 to open a five-game lead over second-place Chicago, which lost 3-1 to California. In the other American League game, Kansas City slugged Minnesota 10-6 in 19 innings. Over in the National League, Philadelphia nipped Montreal 3-2, the Chicago Cubs tripped the New York Mets 6-4, St. Louis slipped past Pittsburgh 5-4, Atlanta beat San Francisco 7-4, San Diego dumped Cincinnati 10-7 and Houston outlasted Los Angeles 15-11.

Perry was nicked for an unearned run in the first inning and Andy Kosco hit a pinch homer in the seventh for Boston. Frank Duffy, Buddy Bell and Chris Chambliss, meanwhile, were doing their thing for Cleveland.

Graig Nettles and Duffy slapped run-scoring doubles in the second inning. Bell hit his eighth homer in the third, then Duffy doubled to trigger a two-run fourth, one of the runs coming on a single by Chambliss. A hit batsman, singles by Alex Johnson and Chambliss and a sacrifice fly added two runs in the sixth.

"I'm a little surprised we've done this well," Dick McAuliffe said after the Tigers ran their winning streak to five games, their longest of the season.

McAuliffe was the major reason. "We sure haven't been busting the ball out of the park," he said after busting two out by himself, driving in four runs with his sixth and seventh homers.

Joe Coleman, treated to a big lead early, coasted home with a six-hitter against the Brewers. Felipe Alou unloaded a two-run homer in the fourth inning, the only runs the Yanks needed to down the Orioles. And Sparky Lyle had what it took to preserve Fritz Peterson's 16th victory. "We all knew how important this game was," Lyle said after equalling an American League record with his 34th save of the season, "but after Felipe smoked that one out of there I knew we were going to win."

Jim "Catfish" Hunter was in the catbird seat, breezing to his 20th victory by limiting the Rangers to just two hits while Gene Tenace drilled a pair of run-scoring doubles for the A's.

Andy Messersmith of the Angels shackled Chicago on three hits as the White Sox sputtered to their fourth loss in five games.

"I guess we've got our work cut out for us now," Manager Chuck Tanner sighed after watching shortstop Luis Alvarado commit two errors that gave California a pair of unearned runs. Wilbur Wood, failing in his third straight attempt to gain his 25th victory, wound up instead with his 14th loss.

Kansas City raced to a 6-0 lead, the Twins raced right back to tie it with three runs in the eighth and three more in the ninth, then the Royals struck for four runs in the 10th on Fred Patek's tie-breaking double, Joe Keough's two-run single and John Mayberry's sacrifice fly.

Old favorites join forces

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

Two of auto racing's all-time favorites, the venerable A. J. Foyt and David Pearson, will join forces in Glenn Wood Mercury racers at Charlotte next month.

If Pearson's performance in a 500 mile stock car race at Dover, Del., Sunday proves the point, the two should be unbeatable.

Pearson, who like Foyt is 37 and in his 20th year of racing, brushed aside such things as 90 degree heat, high humidity and three other strong cars and raced to an easy victory in the Delaware 500—a crucial late-season event on the Grand National circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing. The exhausted Pearson, as tired as he has ever been in his life, made the 500 circuits of the steeply-banked Dover Downs mile in 4 hours, 8 minutes, 57 seconds for a speed of 120.506 miles per hour. His Wood Brothers Mercury performed flawlessly.

Elsewhere, young Frenchman Francois Cevert won his first Canadian-American Challenge Cup road race, a last-lap come from behind thriller at Donnybrook race course near Brainerd, Minn.

Cevert, driving the same McLaren that Denis Hulme used last year, took the lead on the final lap as George Follmer's turbocharged Porsche stalled with victory in sight.

Searching the hinterlands for votes

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

President Nixon has made a bid for votes of Italian-Americans, praising them for their patriotism, while Sen. George McGovern looked for support among West Virginia coal miners today.

Nixon made a surprise appearance at the 12th annual Italian Fall Festival at Mitchellville, Md., Sunday. His daughter, Tricia Cox, originally was to appear, but the President acted as substitute when she couldn't make it.

Nixon drew cheers when he praised the patriotism, hard work and spirit of Italian-Americans. He also toured a nearby nursing home and said elderly Americans should get "the respect they deserve."

In Logan, W.Va., McGovern charged in a prepared speech that the Nixon administration's enforcement of the 1969 Mine Safety Act "has bordered on gross negligence."

He earlier demanded that Nixon suspend Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz pending an investigation of allegations that big grain corporations were given an advantage in the grain sale to the Soviet Union.

The Democratic candidate for president said Nixon has allowed mine owners and loggers to damage the countryside, and he called for a virtual end to strip mining and for restrictions on clear-cut logging in national forests.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver became the latest of the candidates for national office to announce his net worth. He put the figure Sunday at "about $100,000," which is less than the amounts reported by the other candidates, but presumably does not include the personal wealth of his wife, Eunice Kennedy Shriver.

Shriver told listeners at the annual Essex County Sheriff's Picnic at Parsippany, N.J., Sunday that they "never had it so bad."

"Sen. McGovern and I are not interested in what's wrong with Nixon but what's right with our program," Shriver said. "We believe America is the greatest country in the world and we intend to keep it that way."

Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, predicted that Republicans can take control of Congress if President Nixon receives 60 per cent of the popular vote in November.

Wilson said Republicans calculate a 55 per cent Nixon victory could give them control of the Senate.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, Colo., appearing with Wilson on the NBC program "Meet the Press", said Republicans have a realistic chance of winning 7 of the 14 Senate seats now held by Democrats that are at stake in the upcoming election, but he did not say which seven.

Nixon campaign director Clark MacGregor said first reports from a nationwide canvass of voters by Republican volunteers over the weekend indicated that more than 60 per cent support Nixon.

Textile mill goes to 3-day week

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Lester Cutler, a 51-year-old textile mill owner, is as proud as a new father about a three-day work week he has initiated for his employees. He says he thinks it is "as historical as Ford's $5-a-day plan."

Most of the employees at Cutler's Wales Manufacturing Co. are off four days a week, putting in three 12-hour days to earn their full 40-hour pay per week.

Grace Martin, back on the job after a four-day weekend, said: "I was glad to come back. It's unusual for me to miss work that much."

Mrs. Martin runs a knitting machine and says the long day at work does not tire her. There are several short breaks throughout the day and a half hour for lunch.

Another worker, Gloria Bryson, said, "I didn't think I'd feel that good" as she did after her three 12-hour work days.

"If I have to work 40 or 48 hours, this is the best way. I have more time at home," she added.

Cutler says he began thinking about the best way to utilize his plant nearly a year ago, noting that the best utilization of his equipment requires 24-hour operation.

He said he used to have three groups of 30 employees for three eight-hour shifts each work day.

"Now we have 30 working from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, another 30 from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. those days, 30 more on two shifts like that Thursday through Saturday — four groups of 30.

"We created more jobs," he said.

He cites what he thinks are its main benefits:

"First, in today's mode of life one of the main things people are looking for is time off.

"Second, instead of driving to work five days, now they come three days. There is some savings: less wear and tear on automobiles, less gas.

"Third, some females require babysitters, instead of five days, now only two or three. Their husbands can often keep the children one day.

"If it doesn't work, we can always go back — but I don't think so. I'd have one hell of a problem if we went back.

"I'd be tarred and feathered."

Champaign music-makers at fair

Over 30 of the stars of TV's Lawrence Welk Show will appear at one concert in Barton Coliseum on Sunday, Oct. 1, during the 1972 State Fair and Livestock Show in Little Rock. Oswald: "Let's discuss some of the hands from the American Contract Bridge League's nationwide Olympic fund game."

Jim: "These hands are played all over the country and the ACBL staff attempts to predict what will happen. This is a thankless job."

Oswald: "They predicted that most South players would wind up at four hearts. After a spade lead, South would draw trumps and attack diamonds. He would lead the queen first and West would make his best play by covering with the king."

"Then a South who had played out three rounds of trumps would probably lay down the jack and wind up with 12 tricks."

"Those who had played only two rounds of trumps might return to their hand with a third in order to take an unsuccessful finesse for the diamond 10 and would wind up losing a diamond, a spade and a club."

Jim: "This would be disastrous for those Souths who let East and West push them to the five level; others who doubled a defensive four spades would collect 300 to 500 points — not as good as a heart game."

Oswald: "We watched one South get a top score by opening two no-trump. He won the spade opening; cashed his hearts; led the diamond queen; West played the king and dummy the ace. He next played dummy's jack of hearts to make sure of his ninth trick; dropped East's 10 for six no-trump."

Unless we can pass Act 1, Arkansas faces a pay cut.

Arkansas is the only state still burdened with Train Crew Laws which impose higher than necessary operating costs upon its railroads. Unless we can repeal these laws, agriculture and industry face higher freight charges.

We will lose our industrial development momentum. Present industries will be forced to cut back on expansion and many others will have to reduce production and employment. Arkansas will be at a serious disadvantage in attracting new industries. And our working people will be the biggest losers of all.

Is this fair to Arkansas? Is this fair to Arkansas' people?

Railroad unions have already signed contracts with management allowing trains in Arkansas to be operated with less than six men if Act 1 passes. And the unions, through a series of contracts with management, have assured job and earnings protection for every railroad operating employee in Arkansas. So the only losers should Act 1 not make it will be Arkansas agriculture and industry and their employees.

That's us. That's you. And that's why all of us need to vote for Act 1 and avoid a pay cut.

49 out of 50 states can't be wrong.

Vote for Act 1.

New faces in House likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although a near-record number of new faces is likely in the next House of Representatives, the effect of the changes, including some in leadership positions, may not be noticeable for some time.

Some senior members are losing influential committee positions but in most instances other oldsters will take over the vacancies.

Newer and younger members must start at the bottom of the seniority ladder, but their opportunities for advancement are becoming brighter as older members depart.

With more casualties certain in the November elections, the number of new members in the House convening next January may approach the record of 116 who took office in January 1949. There were 51 new faces in the House when the present Congress convened in January 1971.

That number already has been exceeded by announced retirements, primary election defeats, and the quest for other office. Among them, departing members have about 1,000 years of service.

Of the 15 House members defeated in primaries this year, four, all Democrats, are committee chairmen.

They are Reps. Emanuel Celler of New York, Judiciary; George J. Miller of California, Science and Astronautics; Wayne N. Aspinall of Colorado, Interior, and John L. McMillan of South Carolina, District of Columbia.

Celler, 64, has been in the House 50 years. His committee post is scheduled to go to Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who is 63 and has 22 years of seniority.

Miller, 81, has been in the House since 1945. His chairmanship is slated to go to Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., 62, with 26 years of service.

Teague now is chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee. If he elects to keep that post, Miller's chairmanship would go to Rep. Ken W. Hechler, D-W.Va., 58, a 14-year veteran. If Teague leaves the Veterans Affairs panel, the chairmanship would go to Rep. William Jennings Bryan Dorn, D-S.C., who is 56 and has been in the House since 1947.

mittee chairman is destined to go to a liberal Democrat, Rep. Ray J. Madden of Indiana, 60, with 30 years' seniority.

Garmatz, 69, heads the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, and is due to be replaced as chairman by Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., who is 69. Garmatz came to Congress in 1947, Mrs. Sullivan in 1953.

Nine retiring veterans are Republicans who would be chairmen of important committees if Republicans won control.

Only two senators have lost their seats in this year's primaries. Six others are retiring voluntarily.

Nine House members are running for Senate seats. Another is running for governor and one already has lost his bid for nomination to the Senate.

Aspinall, who is 76 with 24 years of service, is due to be replaced as chairman of Interior by Rep. James A. Haley, D-Fla. Haley, 73, came to the House in 1953.

McMillan, 74, has been in the House since 1939 and is one of its most conservative members. He is slated to be replaced as head of the District of Columbia Committee by a liberal black, Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., 50, who was elected to the House in 1954.

Two of the 30 retiring House members are committee chairmen. They are Reps. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., and Edward A. Garmatz, D-Md.

The 82-year-old Colmer heads the Rules Committee and has been a member for 40 years. A conservative, his place as com-

McGovern presses campaign through W. V. coal country

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)

— Sen. George McGovern pressed his presidential campaign through coal country today, looking for votes among miners and students.

The Democratic contender said President Nixon has allowed mine owners and loggers to damage the countryside, and has deliberately refused to enforce laws against unsafe mines and factories.

He said the administration's enforcement of the 1969 Mine Safety Act in particular "has bordered on gross negligence."

In a speech for delivery on the courthouse steps in Logan, not far from the scene of last year's Buffalo Creek mine-related flood disaster, he said: "We must begin now to end the bloodshed of mine disasters and the scarring of the soil."

He called for a virtual end to strip mining, restrictions on clear-cut logging in national forests, stiffer enforcement of the Mine Safety Act, and the federal "Job Safety Act," a $10-million research program to promote mine safety, and a review of all previously denied claims for federal aid to black-lung victims.

Sunday night, McGovern flew to Huntington to make his first speech to a college audience since winning the Democratic presidential nomination two months ago.

At Marshall University, he drew repeated applause from a crowd estimated by local authorities at 4,000, most apparently students.

The longest and loudest cheers came when he denounced the Vietnam war as America's longest, cruelest and most tragic.

Meanwhile, he released a statement calling on Nixon to suspend Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who has denied McGovern's allegations that he kept from the public advance news of a huge Soviet grain purchase and thereby allowed dealers to profit at the expense of farmers by buying before prices went up.

McGovern also said the administration has allowed trade in U.S.-bound heroin to flourish among Southeast Asian allies because "it needs air bases in Thailand, Lao mercenaries and Vietnamese soldiers to fight its war."

McGovern attacked Nixon's record on drug abuse, saying the number of heroin addicts in America has doubled since the President took office and will double again unless serious steps are taken. He acknowledged that the problem is "exceptionally complex," but proposed no specific solutions, save increased efforts to cure addicts, resolve social problems and break up drug syndicates.

West Virginia, which usually delivers its six presidential electoral votes to Democratic candidates, is McGovern's first stop on a 12-day campaign swing.

GOP adopts toned-down busing stand at meeting

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Republican State Convention Saturday adopted a platform that includes what was considered a toned-down antibusing stand.

The antibusing plank, which was approved Friday night following a public hearing, pledges the party to support quality education for all children and equitable financing of education costs.

"We are committed to completing the process of ending school segregation," the platform states. "We are opposed to extremes in busing."

The convention re-elected former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller national committeeman and Mrs. Leona Troxell was elected national committeewoman. She succeeds Mrs. Lillian McGillicuddy who announced earlier she would not seek the post again.

All of the GOP statewide candidates spoke and Rockefeller spoke in behalf of President Nixon and Vice President Agnew calling Nixon a "giant by comparison with the man who opposes him."

Rockefeller also identified the Republican party as the "open door" party and said it could rejoice in offering alternatives to the Democrats whose own program was composed of equal parts of "mirages, miracles and muckraking."

Len Blaylock, the GOP gubernatorial candidate, said that if elected he would "replace charisma with character." Blaylock opposes Gov. Dale Bumpers.

Blaylock also repeated charges that Bumpers is attempting to buy votes by approving emergency payments to welfare recipients with school children.

Blaylock said Friday that county welfare offices had been authorized to give a $40 check to any welfare parent with school-aged children if they needed the money to buy school books. He said the parents could get the check to buy food stamps if they had already purchased the books.

"Shame on him, shame on him," Blaylock told the convention.

Jerome Climer, Republican candidate for secretary of state, told the convention that the incumbent, Kelly Bryant, had converted his office from "public embarrassment to downright scandal."

Climer said Bryant had dodged issues in the campaign. He said the issues were pride in Arkansas, public education and responsibility in the office. Climer said that if elected he would either make the secretary of state a dynamic office or work to have it abolished.

Wayne Babbitt, GOP candidate for U.S. Senate, called his opponent, Sen. John L. McClellan, one of the "most brazen old guard politicians in office" in Arkansas.

Fuel oil imports increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today moved to sharply increase imports of fuel oil. Officials said the proclamation he signed will allow an additional 9,500 barrels to be imported daily through the rest of this year.

The proclamation signed by Nixon increased from 45,000 barrels per day to 50,000 barrels per day of importing No. 2 fuel oil and also said importers can bring in an extra 10 per cent during the last three months of this year. This would add up to 9,400 barrels per day.

No. 2 fuel oil is used extensively in New England and other northern states and Nixon's proclamation said the Office of Emergency Preparedness—OEP—had found that "changes in the supply ... and demand ... have been occurring rapidly and additional flexibility should be provided."

Nixon plans a 'pep talk'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon planned a pep talk today to U.S. diplomats who are assigned to help crack down on illegal drug trafficking around the world.

Senior U.S. narcotics-control officers from American embassies in 55 countries are starting a three-day conference at the State Department to check over progress in the past year and determine what more can be done in the future.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, intelligence chief Richard Helms and John Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, also were on the VIP speakers list.

Nelson Gross, top State Department adviser on the international antinarcotic effort, said "a substantial beginning has been achieved" since the administration opened its campaign a year ago for multicountry cooperation in stamping out illicit narcotics trade.

Gross said that in the New York City area, illegal wholesalers have had to reduce the purity of the heroin they sell from 51 per cent to 32 per cent over the past six months because of increasing difficulty in getting the drug.

In Boston, he said, the cost of a gram of heroin has jumped from $118 to $785 in recent months. In Baltimore prices are up from $10 to $15 a bag with their amount of pure heroin in dropping sharply, he said.

People in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — World chess champion Bobby Fischer has returned from Iceland, stating "it's great to be back in America."

In a rapid, running exchange with newsmen at Kennedy Airport late Sunday, Fischer was asked if he would play in the chess Olympics in Yugoslavia beginning today.

"I don't know," he said. "I'm going to get some rest."

The Rev. William Lombardy, the American international grandmaster who was Fischer's second in Reykjavik, met the champion at the airport. He said it was hoped that Fischer would join the U.S. team but that "he may be too tired" after the strenuous play for the world title.

TOKYO (AP) — British prime minister Edward Heath, sightseeing before talks with Japanese leaders, plunged enthusiastically into touring an old shrine in a mountain resort of Nikko.

Following custom, Heath shed his shoes before entering the 300-year old Toshogu Shrine on Sunday, but found Japanese-style slippers weren't easy to walk in. Nevertheless, he emerged praising the decorations of the gilded wooden buildings.

Heath and the Japanese leaders are set to begin talks today on political, monetary, trade and security issues.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's bible of the aristocracy today urged Buckingham Palace to promote the Duchess of Windsor — former American divorcée Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson — to the status of royalty.

Debrett, the acknowledged guide to the British peerage, said in its 1972-73 edition that Queen Elizabeth II now should elevate the newly widowed duchess to royal rank. Controversy over the duchess' title has gone on intermittently ever since King Edward VIII gave up the throne in 1936 to marry her.

MOSCOW (AP) — Angela Davis has arrived in Sofia, Bulgaria, to a welcome of "red carnations and friendly smiles," Tass reported.

The official Soviet news agency's dispatch from Sofia said Miss Davis, a member of the American Communist party, was invited there by the Central Committee of the Bulgarian Communist party.

She visited the Soviet Union and East Germany earlier and was quoted Sunday by Tass as saying:

"In the U.S.S.R. we saw representatives of many nationalities living and working together as members of one big friendly family."

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Acne cries for expert care

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I enjoy your articles immensely and they have educated me many times. Your article on acne was very interesting to me as I have a daughter who went through the agonies of a severe acne case. My husband and I both have very good complexions but our daughter developed acne when she was 11 years old and it got worse. She became ugly in her own eyes although she was not because of lovely features but this condition wreaked havoc with her heart.

Boys did shy away from her for one thing. Job openings where she would meet the public were closed to her, in spite of a very intelligent mind and college credits. Her teachers even tried to get her jobs, although employers anxious for business thought otherwise.

Dr. Lamb, we tried many avenues for help from pills to finally dermabrasion, which only left more scars and heartaches. One doctor even made a culture from the pus and used it as a serum to inject back into her body. One well-known dermatologist tried X rays and finally gave up saying he tried all the knowledge that God gave him and couldn't do any more.

My daughter came out of it all well adjusted in mind and body, but acne had taken its toll on both of us for almost 20 years. I'm writing this letter to you because when I see a teenager with acne, my heart goes out, because I know what that person feels inside. I sympathize with the mother who wrote to you and if there ever was a drive for funds on trying to cure or curb acne, I would certainly support it, even if I have no teenagers.

Dear Reader—Your letter may help to educate other mothers about acne. You have explained beautifully just how much real damage this problem can cause in individuals' lives. The story you have shared with the other readers, exemplifies why a young person with acne should receive expert care, unless the acne is merely a transitory thing which can be controlled by washing the face with hot water and soap two or three times a day. There are some things which specialists in skin diseases (dermatologists) can do in difficult cases to at least minimize the amount of damage which occurs. How a person looks is indeed very important to the person, and it affects their success in life. Some parents ignore this problem in their boys thinking it's not important whether men are nice looking or not. This is untrue. A person's individual appearance is important to everyone, male or female, and it does influence their success. Thank you for taking time to write your letter.

Shriver 'poorest' candidate

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sargent Shriver says his net worth is about $100,000—a figure that would make him appear the poorest of the four men seeking national office.

It puts the Democratic vice-presidential candidate out of the financial league of President Nixon, who reports a net worth of $765,118.

Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew disclosed a net worth of $190,250. Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, reported in January that his assets totaled $271,600 more than his liabilities.

In answer to a newsman's question Sunday, Shriver replied: "My net worth is about $100,000." He did not elaborate. But since his wife, Eunice, is a member of one of America's wealthiest families, the Kennedys, it was apparent that Shriver was speaking only of his personal worth.

John Twohey, Shriver's deputy press secretary, said in Washington that a detailed statement of Shriver's financial situation is in preparation and will be issued within the next few days.

"The $100,000 represents mostly the income from his law practice in the last year," Twohey said.

Shriver spent a sweaty Sunday afternoon doing some old-time politicking at the annual Essex County sheriff's picnic at Parsippany, N.J., good-humoredly absorbing such nuisances as a sabotaged public-address system and a helicopter with a battery too weak to take flight. "Let me tell you something—you never had it so bad," Shriver told a beer, hot-dog and baseball crowd at the picnic. He pledged that a McGovern-Shriver administration would ensure that every person who wants to work will have a job.

Boyleing it down

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A computer is a better recall machine than the human memory in some ways.

But it excels only in terms of pure quantity. No human mind could store and then deliver back on demand the millions of figures or letters or words that a computer can.

But when it comes to quality, the machine is hopelessly outclassed. Only the blood-fed heart and mind can recall the flavor of a memory or restore an emotional event with all the impact that it had originally.

You've got a pretty good memory box in your own head if you can push a mental button and it will remember when:

A juvenile delinquent was a kid who pitched pennies at sidewalk cracks for keeps.

A man who skipped going to church on Sunday felt guilty about it all next week.

You weren't a real traveling salesman until you learned to call every Pullman porter "George."

In summer you could tell a dude by his straw boater and two-tone shoes.

In a fair fight, there still was some tradition of sportsmanship. You were supposed to refrain from kicking an opponent

'Laundered' movies are making their way to television

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Remember all those movies everyone said would never be on television because of the sex, language and violence?

Well, a lot of them are coming to television—but laundered.

Television has virtually exhausted the supply of movies made before the Motion Picture Association of America instituted its rating system in 1968, and the networks and stations are now turning—with scissors ready—to later pictures with bolder themes.

A few movies rated R for theaters reached the home screen last year, after careful editing, and at least a dozen are scheduled by the networks this coming season. None of the networks is even looking at X-rated movies because sexuality generally runs throughout.

Under the R rating, persons 17 or under must be accompanied by an adult. An X-rated movie is barred to 17-year-olds or under. A movie with a G rating is released for general audiences, while a movie with a PG rating leaves it up to the parent to decide whether to take children.

"When you go into a home where there are young children there are certain subjects you don't want to be that graphic about," said Herminio Traviesas, NBC vice president for practices and standards. "We must be careful because we don't know who is watching and yet we have to provide more provocative thematic material."

William Self, president of 20th Century Fox Television, said, "It's a problem. Motion picture companies are aiming at a different audience, one that's more sophisticated and fragmented. Movies don't have to appeal to everybody. Television is just the opposite. It's a mass medium."

"Obviously, we don't try to edit a film for television if it's thematically difficult," Self said. "I'd never offer 'Myra Breckinridge' or 'The Staircase' for television. But if it's language or a sex scene that I can isolate, I can cut that out."

NBC's premiere movie on "Monday Night at the Movies" last week was "The Anderson Tapes," a crime caper starring Sean Connery that had been rated R for theaters.

"When we first saw the picture we didn't think we could use it because of the rough words," Traviesas said. "But Columbia Studios sent over two editors and we reviewed it together. We told them our philosophy and what couldn't be done."

"They went back and did a masterful job of cutting, turning scenes around and getting the language out. We think the integrity of the picture was preserved. That's important, because you can conform to broadcast standards and ruin a movie for viewing."

Grace Johnson, director of standards and practices for ABC, said, "Our policy on R films is to look at them and indicate where editing is required. Then we return the film to the producer for editing and he submits the film to the Motion Picture Association for a new rating. If he cannot get the rating changed we don't accept the film."

"I think we're getting tougher in the violence area," she said. "In the sex area, I think we're a little more relaxed. Certainly not with nudity, however, which is always edited out. But we are more relaxed with subject matter and language as long as it's in good taste."

Among the R movies ABC has edited for television are "Goodbye Columbus," "The Sterile Cuckoo," "Hard Contract," "John and Mary," "The Magus," "Lady in Cement," and "The Adventurers."

The last required extensive editing for sex and violence and Miss Johnson said, "We're still working on that one." Some of the films may not be aired until next season.

ABC also edited "I've Got a Secret," "Patton" and "True Grit," which were rated PG, for language, and "Lawrence of Arabia," for violence. NBC edited "In the Heat of the Night," for a scene of nudity.

A movie can be edited for television in different ways. Nudity, for instance, must come out, but that does not mean the entire scene is lost for television. Sometimes another and less revealing angle can be found among the original film that was shot and not used. Other times, studio editors can optically scan the film to move the nudity out of the frame in the same way a corner drugstore can make a closeup from a group shot.

If a character utters a four-letter word it has to come out, but the actor can't be shown silently mouthing the word. Usually, the studio will go back to the original film and find another angle that can be spliced in.

That was the case with "Love

Story" which will be seen on ABC. "It had some strong language," said Mike Policare, director of technical operations for Paramount Pictures, the producers. "I feel as though the cut picture has not at all hurt the Ali McGraw character. She's the same character without the strong dialogue."

In the scene in the park in which Miss McGraw asks costar Ryan O'Neal what he calls his father, in the theater version he answers "son of a bitch." For the television version the editors went to another part of the movie and found another piece of dialogue. Now when O'Neal is asked what he calls his father, he answers, "Nothing special."

Although the networks are looking only at movies rated G, PG or R, CBS did run an X-rated movie on its late night movie in February. That was Luchino Visconti's "The Damned."

"CBS got a totally unwarranted black eye over that," said Ed Bleier, a Warner Brothers vice president. "The Damned" was a brilliant movie considered a masterpiece by many. It got an X rating because incest was implied. But the incest was a metaphor for the sordidness of nazism. That and other scenes were edited and when the picture reached CBS it was an R. CBS then re-edited it for broadcast standards.

Bleier said, "The movie rating system is for the theater. Television has its own standards of editing out any material that could be considered offensive. It's a most stringent system. You cannot apply the movie ratings to television. They're different mediums. A movie rated R for the theater is no longer an R movie when it reaches television."

News Briefs

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Southern Christian Leadership Conference official Hosea Williams chose to stay in jail for the second straight night rather than pay $1,500 bond.

Williams was arrested Friday night on charges of battering a police officer and creating a turmoil as he was leading demonstrators at the Martin Luther King Sr. Nursing Center. The group was protesting what it termed deplorable working conditions at the center.

A spokesman at the city jail said the DeKalb County SCLC head, told Saturday he would be allowed to make bail, replied, "I think I'll just stay here for awhile."

"Nobody's posting bond for him," another jail employee said Sunday night.

ASHBURN, Ga. (AP) — Salvage operations began in a gigantic peanut warehouse as firemen were still pouring water on a smoldering fire.

Plant manager Robert Davis said a fire which broke out Saturday and raged out of control for three hours caused an estimated $1 million damage to a Goldkist Peanut Plant warehouse. It contains 16 silos housing 4,000 tons of peanuts and is one of the largest in the world for peanut storage and processing.

No injuries were reported.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Are you an unemployed Ph.D. in biology, physics or engineering? If so, have you ever thought of becoming a dentist? The University of Pennsylvania says there is a shortage of dentists and an overabundance of biologists, engineers and physics pros. So the school is offering the nation's first federally financed program to make dentists out of unemployed scientists.

The program starts Nov. 1. Applications must be in by Oct. 1, said Dr. Walter Cohen, dean of the university's School of Dental Medicine.
